

ADACEMIC ADVISING

Theatre and Dance faculty will serve as academic advisors to the majors in the department. The academic advisor's purpose is to assist the student in planning his/her course of study and in registering for courses. Advisors are here to assist; they are not responsible for ensuring that all requirements for graduation are met. This is the responsibility of the student. Students are expected to take ownership of their academic course of study and should become fully aware of departmental requirements (for a specific major and minor) and university core requirements. Academic advising usually begins in early November during the fall semester and early April during the spring semester, although you may schedule an advising appointment with your advisor at any time. If a problem arises with your advisor, contact the Department Chair. Remember, the final responsibility for planning, enrolling, completing, and succeeding in your academic program remains with you